AMERICANS FIGHT IN BELGIUM

5,000 MARCHERS IN PARADE AT 1:30

PATRIOTISM IS KEYNOTE OF PROCESSION

Every Marcher Will Carry Amreican Flag; Union Banners Also

COMMONS SPEAKER

Despite lowering skies and threatened rain, preparations for Madison's big "win the war" Labor Day parade were continued this morning with undiminished effort.

The parade, comprising nearly 5,000 members, will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock from Wisconsin avenue and Mifflin sreet. It will comprise two divisions, military and industrial, and will be headed by a platoon of police, the band of the Eighth regiment, Wisconsin state guard, and four companies of the same regiment.

Invitations to march in the military section have been extended to members of the G. A. R. and the Boy Scouts, but up to 10 o'clock this morning no response had been received by the committee in charge.

Patriotism will be the key-note of the parade and the mass meeting to be held at Vilas park immediately after the parade is disbanded. Every marcher will carry an American flag, and each union will be headed by a large American flag and the union's banner. In addition, the Red, White and Blue will predominate in the various costumes to be worn by the marchers. In addition, there will be a number of patriotic floats supplied by the ice and coal workers and other unions. The Machinists' union will have four or five floats, one of which weighs three tons and is very elaborate.

At Vilas park the workers will be given a patriotic address by Prof. John R. Commons. Field sports and a band concert will occupy the rest of the afternoon, and tonight the union workers will attend the dance to be given at the Studio, with music by Scherer's orchestra.

There has been but one change in the line of march. Instead of marching out Warren street to Vilas park, the parade will go out Orchard street. The parade will turn east into Mifflin street from Wisconsin avenue, will traverse the square and go out State street to Orchard street.

The various sections of the industrial section will form at the following designated places and will march in the order in which they appear, which they appear:

Madison Ministerial association—form on west side of Wisconsin avenue, facing Mifflin street.

Building trades section—form on east side of Wisconsin avenue, facing Mifflin street composed of sheet metal workers, plumbers, steamfitters, plasterers, bricklayers, teamsters, hoisting engineers, carpenters.

10,000 GAL. SAVED BY SUNDAY RULE

Estimate Made on the Number of Machines in Madison

GARY IN INTERVIEW

Numbers Taken by the Police and by Other Individuals

Madison observed its first "autoless" Sunday yesterday.

In the opinion of George E. Gary, Dane county fuel administrator, there was a very hearty response to the fuel administration's request to voluntarily cut out the use of pleasure cars on Sunday, while in the minds of others it is thought that the request could have been responded to in a much greater degree than it was.

"I think the people did very well," Mr. Gary said today, 'and effected quite a saving of gasoline. A number of pleasure cars were out, but of course it must be understood that many of these were out through necessity.

Takes No Numbers

Mr. Gary refrained from having the numbers of the machines which were out yesterday taken. He explained:

"We do not wish to take any drastic steps. We wish to see first how the people respond to the request of the fuel administration. At present it is wholly a voluntary matter, with no penalty attached for violation. However, if the people do not respond to the request voluntarily, an order will be issued making it mandatory. Then it will be time to begin taking the numbers of machines."

Mr. Gary said that the fuel administration figured that there would be a saving of five gallons of gasoline for each car kept in its garage on Sunday. It is estimated by one of the local garages that there are approximately 3,000 machines in Madison. If only 2,000 of these remained at home yesterday, approximately 10,000 gallons of gasoline was saved.

There was not an hour of the day when a pleasure car could not be seen on the streets, and frequently they could be seen in numbers. At Vilas park 37 machines were parked or being driven about at one time. The numbers of a great many cars were taken by the police and turned in at police headquarters.

Ask Further Conservation

Mr. Gary said that the order from Washington, asking that gasoline be saved on Sunday, also includes a request that cars conserve gasoline through the week as much as possible.

AUSTRALIANS IN A GREAT FIGHT

Three German Divisions Crumble Before One of the Allies

LONDON—The Australians who captured Mont St. Quentin with 1,500 prisoners and thereby made the fall of Peronne inevitable, accomplished the feat within an hour and with a loss to themselves of only twenty-five men. The correspondent says that the better part of three German divisions crumbled to pieces before one Australian unit. The Germans appeared to have felt some sort of nameless terror similar to that which sometimes takes possession of troops fighting against Indians in their native haunts.

The capture of Peronne, according to the correspondent, should turn the enemy's present line and hasten his retreat.

TODAY'S SITUATION

(By the Associated Press)

The gigantic offensive of the allied armies continues with no indication of weakening along the battleline from Ypres to Soisssons. At several points the German defences are seriously menaced, especially near Lille and St. Quentin on the British front, while the Franco-American forces to the south continue to advance.

Few defences remain to the Germans between Peronne, which was captured yesterday by the Australians and the strongholds along the famous Hindenburg line, around St. Quentin. The Australians now hold Flamicourt and St. Denis, in addition to Peronne and are reported to be making progress near Mont St. Quentin. To the left of the Australians, English troops are advancing southeast of Combles. In these operations the Germans have lost more than 2,000 men and many guns. Several hundred prisoners also were taken in the different operations that resulted in the capture of Bullecourt, Hendecourt and Le-Transloy.

On the Lys front, where Americans for the first time have taken a place in the battle line, the allied troops have advanced to Steenwerck and are engaging the enemy rear guards in the vicinity of Neuve Englise. In their firt operation in Belgium the Americans captured Voormezeele and several strong positions between that town and Ypres. The allied line has been extended to the La Basse-Estaires road and it is evident that the Germans are preparing to retreat a line from Wytschaete to Mesines.

On the French front where American forces also are engaged under the command of Gen. Mangin, the enemy is showing strong resistance. Here the Americans have taken up new positions near Terny-Borny, following their capture of Juvigny and the further retirement of the Germans making progress in the vicinity of Bucy-le-Long.

In answer to the claims made by the allies of important advances the Germans reply that their retirements and relinquishment of territory were for the purpose of shortening the line.

Since the beginning of the allies' offensive on July 18, 75,900 Germans have been taken prisoners and 700 guns captured on one French front.

YANKS TAKE POSITIONS IN HOT FIGHTS

Capture Vormezeele and Several Other Places in Vicinity

BULLECOURT TAKEN

Machine Guns Used in "Dog Fight"; Many German Bodies Found

(By the Associated Press)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FLANDERS (Sunday, Sept. 1)—In their first fighting in Belgium the Americans captured Voormezeele and several strong German positions in that immediate vicinity. On their entrance into Voormezeele the invaders found thatall that remained of the town were piles of debris, for the shell fire had been so intense that hardly one brick was left standing upon another.

As the Americans advanced the German rear guards from what little cover remained oepned up with their machine guns but these were quickly silenced without much trouble. Elsewhere in the same locality the Americans also advanced the line, keeping in contact with the retreating enemy. Counter attacks by the Germans resulted in their gaining little more than a slight foothold which in every case was quickly loosened by British and American attacks. In most places the Germans did not even get a foothold for the advancing formations were met with hurricanes of fire under which they melted away. There has been especially heavy fighting in the whirlpool of the battle around Bullecourt and Hendecourt, where the British are holding positions almost resting against the Drocourt-Queant, or Wotan line.

City Lost and Won

It is believed that Bullecourt itself has thrice been last and won in the past two days. First the British were in the town and then the Germans. While one side had the control the machine gunners and bombers from the other would filter in and get the position and then the place would become most active. From ruin to ruin, through cellars and through old and new trenches the fighting has continued and all of the time almost the same tactics were being following in the country surrounding. In the language of the British soldiers it has been a "dog fight" here for two days.

The British have retired only when hordes of Germans appeared but their retirement usually has been to the positions where they could pour machine gun bullets into the enemy. Just how it appears that Bullecourt and Hendecourt again are in British hands and that the cellars, dugouts and hiding places are being mopped up. Similar fighting has been going on in the villages of Eacoust-St. Mein and Dongatte, and these places also are in the possession of the British.

The ground in front of the British lines throughout this region is piled with dead Gerfans for the British have not hesitated to temporarily retire slightly in the face of strong enemy attacks when it appeared that their own strength could thereby be conserved and at the same time secure an opportunity to mow down masses of Germans.

At Mont St. Quentin the Germans have counter attacked again and again at great cost but the line there remains intact.

Everything Is Moved

The enemy seems to have removed virtually everything he had in Peronne for he realized that the town surely must come into British hands soon, but nevertheless there was fighting there before the place was captured. There has been more hard fighting around Le-Transloy, which fell to the British a few days ago. The Germans here were finally established in the semetery at the edge of the town but the place now has been stormed and captured and the Germans driven south and east.

Late yesterday the enemy delivered powerful counter attacks east of Fremicourt on the Bapaume-road, the infantry being assisted, according to reports, by a few tanks. The Germans succeeded in penetrating a short distance but the British immediately reattacked and ground which the Germans had

BULLETIN

LONDON — Le-Transloy, the important point in the line between Bapaume and Peronne where the Germans have been holding stubbornly is considered by the British today as virtually in their hands. They have captured the village of Villers-Au-Flos to the north and Le-Transloy now is out-flanked on both sides. The capture of Noreuil, northeast of Bapaume, was reported this morning. Between 3,000 and 4,000 prisoners were taken by the Australians in the vicinity of Peronne yesterday. The French met with a slight setback to the east of Nesle, losing the crest of Hill 77, which they had captured last night.

BULLETIN

PARIS — Entente allied airplane observers report that German convoys are moving to the eastward in the region of Roisel and beyond that town. Roisel is about seven miles east of Peronne. The Germans are rapidly removing their stores or blowing them up.

Miss Mary Miles Minter, star ingenue of screen drama, built like a fawn and gaited like one, too, can probably outrun any motion picture actress in America, bar none. Mary bet that she could do the distance faster than Bill Russell could and Mary had to pay because Mr. Russell beat her by ¾ of a second over the distance. At that the star of "Social Briars" proposes to try again next week. Her time for the 100 yards is within one second of the woman's amateur record.

Actors In Thrilling Play Were Under Bombardment

"Hearts of the World," which is announced for a special engagement of seven days at the Fuller commencing Sunday night, Aug. 8, was eighteen months in the making.

The production is not in any sense a war play, but a love story of the great war, with the conflict serving as the grim background.

The battle scenes were taken on the battlefields of France by permission and with the assistance of the British and French governments.

Mr. Griffith and many of his principal players, including Lillian and Dorothy Gish and Mrs. Gish, mother of the two girls; Robert Harron and George A. Seigmann, were under actual bombardment three times, on one occasion for a period covering four hours.

"PETE" DISPLAYS HIS PATRIOTISM THROUGH ACTIONS, NOT WORDS

Some people shout their patriotism from the platform, others show by subscribing large sums to war funds and others work for organizations without pay but the greatest patriotism is the work that accomplishes things, where no boast is made of what has been done because it is every man's duty. Such is the patriotism of Peter J. Diebold, 1433 University avenue.

"Pete" has worked early and late since the time of putting in the potatoes last spring, and now he is still at work, so that the fruits and vegetables may not rot and go to waste, as often happens in the war gardens. Every available spot around the house has been transformed into a war garden which is yielding enough to supply the present needs of the family, and also adds to the small stock in the cellar.

At the end of University avenue a number of lots were wasted in weeds in the years gone by, so when the government asked that every empty plot of ground be used as a garden, Pete sought these lots, on which he planted potatoes, beans cabbage, tomatoes and all the other vegetables which go to make part of the everyday meal. From his potatoes

"They are the longest potatos to furnish the needs of the family for the coming winter, and some of his potatoes are seven inches long.

"They are the longest potatoe that I have ever seen," said Mr. Diebold when talking about his garden products.

He has a garden along the railroad track and along the sidewalk which are on either side of the flatiron shaped building which he built and finished a little at a time, though it took about three years. Already much of the garden truck has been dug up and put in the cellar for use during the winter. Besides all this work, Pete does his shop work repairing and sharpening of tools. He has a genial wife and fine looking healthy boys and girls, the oldest of whom are already starting to make their own way in the world.

COTTAGE GROVE BOY IS KILLED; TED LEWIS HURT

August Bram, Jr., Makes Sacrifice; Was 29 Years Old

News that another Cottage Grove boy, the second, had been killed in action was received Saturday, when Mr. and Mrs. August Bram were notified by the war department that their son, August, Jr., had made the supreme sacrifice.

Bram was 29 years old and enlisted last November at White Cloud, Mich.

Word that Lieut. Theodore Lewis, son of Tate F. Lewis of McFarland, had been severely wounded in action was received by his father. Lieut. Lewis lived three years in Madison and was employed in the law office of Rufus B. Smith. He was commissioned at the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan.

Baldness Conquered

RECIPE MAILED FREE

A veteran business man, who was almost completely bald and had tried numerous tonics, lotions, shampoos, etc., without benefit, came across, while on a journey, an Indians' recipe by which he grew a complete crop of healthy, luxuriant hair that he now possesses.

Others—men and women—have reported remarkable hair growth by the same method. Whoever wishes the recipe may obtain it free by writing to John Hart Brittain, BA-223, Station F, New York, N. Y. Or obtain a box of the ointment, Kotalko, made according to the perfected recipe, at the drug store, ready for use.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

In a vast number of cases, when hair falls out, the roots are not dead, but remain imbedded in the scalp, alive, like seeds or bulbs, needing only fertility. The usual alkaline shampoos, alcoholized hair tonics, etc., are of no avail in such cases. The Indians' ointment nourishes the hair and stimulates the growth.

Kotalko fertilizes the scalp and induces hair growth in every case possible; wonderful results reported. For men's, women's and children's hair. If you are bald, or losing hair, or have dandruff, you should try Kotalko. It is a pleasure to observe the starting of new hair and its steady increase until a prolific growth supersedes thin hair or baldness. Cut out this notice; show to others who want beautiful hair. The recipe is free. This is genuine.

CARL JOHNSON PASSES LIE TO CONGRESSMAN

Says John M. Nelson's Statements Are Untrue; Called Unmitigated Liar

Carl A. Johnson, president of the Gisholt Machine Co., yesterday issued a statement in reply to statements made by Congressman Nelson. The following statement was printed in The Madison Democrat of yesterday morning:

"There has come to my attention a circular entitled, 'Remarks of Hon. John M. Nelson of Wisconsin in the house of representatives; Monday, July 15, 1918,' in which he uses my name and that of Gisholt Machine company, of which I am president.

"These 'remarks' which are stated to have been made in congress were, I am informed, never delivered there and are being circulated under government frank to promote Congressman Nelson's ambition to retain his seat in congress.

"In his references to myself and company there is little of truth, more of misleading half-truth and most of direct falsehood. They show him to be an unmitigated liar.

"It is true that on January 8, 1915, I wrote to Congressman Nelson, as the representative of this district, the letter which he quotes containing my views upon them pending bills relating to an embargo on munitions. The views expressed in my letter are in accord with the position taken by the president of the United States, by the great majority of the representatives in both houses of congress, and by the great mass of loyal citizens. John M. Nelson, though he publishes my letter with contemptible inuendo, has not said and does not dare say to his constituents that he now disagrees with a single statement in it.

"Congressman Nelson's statement that 'officers of the Gisholt Machine company were in Washington last winter lobbying to prevent a tax placed upon war profiteering' is an unmitigated lie.

"The implication against me involved in the statement that 'Carl Johnson is a member of the Dane county council of defense which instigated by its telegrams the persecution of myself and my son' is absolutely false.

"Congressman Nelson's statement that 'Carl Johnson, sitting upon the local board, sought in every way to prevent my son from going back to Canada to attend to his duties there when he had come to plead not guilty in court' is an unmitigated lie.

"Congressman Nelson's statement that I am president of the Loyalty League is another lie, though why Congressman Nelson should object to a Loyalty League it is for him to explain.

"Congressman Nelson's statement that I 'was active in bringing out an opposition candidate' is in a sense true, as it ought to be. Any man fails in his duty as a citizen who is not active in preventing this district from being longer misrepresented in congress by John M. Nelson.

"Congressman Nelson's statement that "the colossal income of this concern any many others is going into the Madison banks and trust companies' and the implications which he attaches to this statement are falsely misleading.

"Congressman Nelson's statement and implications with respect to the income of the Gisholt Machine company are such a mixture of half-truth and falsehood as to make them more contemptible, if that were possible, than an unequivocal lie.

"In line with the trick of the peanut politician Congressman Nelson seeks to perpetuate his $7,500 job by raising collateral issues and indulging in personal abuse. It is not my custom to notice such frothings as he indulges in, but he has gone so far in personal attack that I feel that I owe it to myself and the public to make the above statement which I stand ready at any time to prove."

The War Industries Board Issues Orders To News-Papers

Subscriptions Must Be Paid In Advance--No Free Copies To Be Given Out

To the end that there may be the largest possible conservation of white paper, the War Industries Board has issued the following orders to all newspapers:

1. Discontinue the acceptance of the return of unsold copies.

2. Discontinue sending papers after date of expiration unless subscription is renewed and paid for. (This ruling to be effective October 1, 1918.)

3. Discontinue the use of all samples or free promotion copies.

4. Discontinue giving copies to anybody except for office working copies or where required by statute law in the case of official advertising.

5. Discontinue giving free copes to advxrtisers, except not more than one copy each for checking purposes.

The Capital Times has given its fullest co-operation to all war time activities authorized by the National administration and has cheerfully complied with all orders affecting its business. This policy must continue and it therefore asks its patrons for their co-operation in order that the above rules may be complied with in both spirit and in letter.

Subscribers are asked to note Rule 2. It provides that papers must be discontinued at the expiration of subscription unless renewed and paid for. It has been the practice of The Capital Times in some instances to make collections at the end of periods of three months, six months or a year. This practice the War Industries Board says must be discontinued after Oct. 1. The Capital Times does not wish to occasion any of its old subscribers any inconvenience but it has no option in this matter. The War Industries Board allows you till Oct. 1 to pay up arrearages, renew your subscription and pay for it. The Capital Times trusts it may not be necessary to discontinue a single paper.

Note also Rule 4.

Under this rule The Capital Times [illegible]ust discontinue giving to anybody except for office working cop[illegible] quired by statute law.

The supply of print paper is inade[illegible]ate to meet the demands for it. The War Industr[illegible] rules to check the waste of paper.

The Capital Times asks your co-op[illegible]tion in its compliance with these rules, all of [illegible] with the exception of Rule 2. That beco[illegible]s effective Oct. 1, 1918.

CARL A. JOHNSON, president of the Gisholt Machine Co., said, among other things, in a statement issued yesterday:

"Congressman Nelson's statement that I was active in bringing an opposition candidate is in a sense true as it ought to be. Any man fails in his duty as a citizen who is not active in preventing this district from being longer misrepresented in Congress by John M. Nelson."

This statement is interesting because it is a confession of what The Capital Times has said repeatedly: That the bitter opposition which has been started against Congressman Nelson was instigated by local profiteers.

Mr. Johnson, whose company made profits of $3,500,000 in two years, is Madison's star profiteer.

The newspaper organs, to which Mr. Johnson has become unusually friendly in both advertising and in other ways in the last year, have denied with vehemency that Madison's profiteers have had a hand in the campaign directed against Congressman Nelson. They have strenuously indicated that such talk was camouflage resorted to in order to befog the issue.

It happens that The Capital Times knows just a little more of the inside of the political manipulations concerning the opposition to Mr. Nelson than was intended to be revealed for public information.

The comfortable lounges of the Madison club enveloped some time ago a conference which contained among others Mr. Johnson, Emerson Ela and the editor of The State Journal. A suitable candidate to defeat Nelson was being discussed. They admitted among themselves that Monahan was impossible as a figure for rallying the loyalty forces of the district. It was stated that a Norwegian with progressive tendencies was especially desirable. The conference therefore settled upon F. J. Vea, a Norwegian, and a leading manufacturer from Stoughton.

This plan looked good until the troublesome Mr. Shuttleworth "spilled the beans." Mr. Shuttleworth stated in the columns of The Capital Times that no man who made money out of the war could be elected to congress from this district. This threw pandemonium into the Vea boom when it was learned that Mr. Vea's company had made war profits. The Vea boom blew up the day before the "loyalty" conference was held and the conference, running true to form, nominated Monahan.

We are glad to know that the only considerations which guide Mr. Johnson in his opposition to Mr. Nelson are those of loyalty. We have been so unrighteous as to be inclined to suspect that perhaps Mr. Nelson's views with respect to the taxes that profiteers ought to pay might have entered into the question. We are also glad to know that Mr. Johnson's interest in the embargo was the same as that which actuated President Wilson and other loyal citizens. Mr. Johnson, being a larger exporter of the implements of war, rather led us to believe that perhaps Mr. Johnson might be prejudiced a trifle by the contemplation of a ledger on which zeros might be cut off on the credit side with the passage of such a measure as the embargo.

Now that we have Mr. Johnson's statement that he has had something to do with the opposition to Mr. Nelson we are going to make a statement that has been in our mind for some time.

The Capital Times believes that if this war is continued one day through the activities of disloyalists or those guilty of obstruction that it will be criminal. But The Capital Times goes further than that: If this war is continued so much as one day because of the activities of and the influence of people who are making money out of this war it will be a crime against civilization. We believe that ethics ought to dictate to any man making money out of this war that he be placed in the position of a prejudiced witness insofar as to how and when the war shall be terminated. And it certainly isn't in the interest of this country to have men in public life being assailed by men who are profiting by the war. If we had our way, no man who is making [illegible] of this war would have much to say about its conduct.

[illegible] disloyalists in making active opposition to men [illegible] profits he will be the target for a sus[illegible] war that is being conducted for [illegible] and men who want to take 80 per [illegible] which to back up our boys in [illegible] RED[illegible] duce o[illegible] make up his mind now as [illegible] ten to [illegible] reaching a stage where it [illegible] tion of millions in profits to any group or individual while the rank and file are being ground down under gouging prices on the necessities of life.

The fact that Carl A. Johnson is opposed to Mr. Nelson ought to commend the Nelson candidacy to the voters of the third district more than ever.

Wisconsin Toilers Should Vote Together September Third

(From The Equity News)

As the primary campaign in this state draws to its close I hope that every reader of The Wisconsin Farmer, who can cast a vote, will fell it his high privilege and serious duty to go to the polls and cast his ballot for the candidates who are advocating those things which are to the best interests of the organized agricultural and industrial laborers of Wisconsin—the toilers on the farms and in the factories, who produce the real wealth of our state. Sometimes, out of a number of candidates, all of whom profess their friendship for the working class, it may be difficult to tell just what ones to choose, but in the present instance this should not be difficult for Wisconsin voters. Regardless of what other candidates may say or favor, the ticket recommended by the conference of farmers, laboring men and consumers, at Madison, on May 1st, may be relied upon as standing for progressive principles, including a better system of marketing farm produce and closer cooperation between producers and consumers. I am going to print the names of the candidates on the republican ticket, that received this endorsement from the producers' and consumers' conference. They are:

For Governor—James N. Tittemore of Omro.

For Lieutenant Governor—Harley F. Nickerson, of Milwaukee.

For State Treasurer—J. Fred Larson, of Ellsworth.

I do not have the pleasure of knowing all these men personally, but I have confidence in the judgment of those who do know them and their records, and I know that in making their campaign upon a closer union of producers and consumers—the laboring people of our farms and cities—they are advocating something that I approve and that the world is going to see brought about.

I have been amused and incensed by some of the attempts to discredit these Farmers' Progressive League candidates and to discount their endorsement of the economic reforms that have for years been so successfully tested by the cooperative farmers' organizations of Wisconsin. For instance, I see that Governor Philipp has expressed himself against the farmers' plan of cooperative marketing, comparing the present-day movement for standardizing farm products to the old grain store of half a century ago. As one of my Wisconsin correspondents well remarks, in commenting on Governor Philipp's position:

Surely such "stalwarts are forever looking at the pitfalls of the past, instead of holding up ideals to be striven for in the future.

It seems to me to come with very poor grace from a candidate for governor, who is appealing to Wisconsin farmers for their votes, to go back fifty years to find a comparison for such successful Wisconsin farmers' organizations as the Society of Equity, the Farmers' Union and our various cooperative creameries, dairies and elevators. Such cooperative farmers' movements have not only received the endorsement and encouragement of the federal Department of Agriculture, but they have been making a success right under Governor Philipp's nose for years, saving millions of dollars to Wisconsin agricultural interests and setting a model for the farmers of all other states to follow.

Another appeal to prejudice, I suppose, will be made on the grounds that the loyalty of Wisconsin farmers is suspected, and that if they do not vote for certain candidates they will convict themselves of disloyalty. Such an argument is an insult to the farmers of this state and a base slander against them. I noticed not long ago a full page of such falsehoods and insults against Wisconsin farmers in the columns of another Wisconsin agricultural paper edited by Charles H. Everett, candidate for lieutenant governor. It was headed "Play Fair, Mr. Farmer!" and among many other falsehoods and insults, which it contained, were the following:

> If there is any sense in talking "profiteering" it cannot be gainsaid that the farmer has had the lion's share of the big profits. Farmers have conceived an erroneous idea that all they need to do is to raise crops and sell them at enormous profits. They do not feel that it is up to them to pay income taxes, business taxes or other direct taxes. They do not think it is up to them to send men to the fighting line. They do not think it is part of their duty to invest their money in liberty bonds. But the duty of subscribing to the liberty bonds is precisely as binding on farmers as on anybody else. It is time for the farmer to wake up on liberty loans. Bring out your idle money. Turn your enormous cash profits into the United States treasury and use your credit to help win this war.

Never, since Banker Halburt of Chicago, issued his now famous, or infamous attack on the farmers saying they would neither fight, buy liberty bonds nor supply the food for our soldiers, have I seen so astounding a libel upon the good name of our patriotic Wisconsin farmers. Its ignorance of facts is exceeded only by its deliberate falsehoods. I could quote a hundred facts that completely disprove every criticism made, but I am going to confine myself merely to a quotation of what one of the most responsible agencies in our federal war organization had to say in reply to such scurrilous attacks against the farmer and his organizations. It is from a bulletin sent out to all the papers o fthe country by the Committee on Public Information at Washington, composed of Secretary of State Lansing, Secretary of War Baker, Secretar yof the Navy Daniels and George Creel, Chairman—all under appointment from President Wilson. It is the duty of this committee to interpret to the public, through the press and other publications, the war aims and policies of the government, and it found it necessary to issue a special statement refuting these baseless assaults on the farmes' patriotism, which reads as follows:

> Along with the campaign to set the farmer against the government's war measures there has been proceeding a twin campaign to arouse feeling against him by accusing his western farmers' leagues of disloyalty. That is equally a work in aid of the enemy. The western farmers have contributed their quotas to enlistments and to the drafts as loyally as any citizens. They have subscribed to liberty loans and contributed to the war relief work with unfailing patriotism. They have their quarrels with men whom they suspect of exploiting them, the same as labor has had its quarrels with its employers. But so long as it is conducted without interfering with the nation's war work, the charges of disloyalty is itself traitorous.

But I suppose in spite of the efforts which the federal government has made to catch up with what it calls "traitorous charges" against the loyalty of the farmers and their organizations, we will hear the same old lies against Wisconsin farmers dragged out for eleventh-hour campaign roorbacks. I hope that my readers will pay no attention to them, excepting to rebuke the men who seek to use one of the finest sentiments in the world—that of patriotism—for selfish political ends.

This is not a time for political camouflage, but for a decision on the real issues of the hour—the great economic problems that confront the agricultural and industrial toilers of the state. And I hope that the organized farmers of Wisconsin and the organized labor of the cities will join hands in nominating on September 3rd, the candidates on the republican ticket (headed by Mr. Tittemore for governor) whose names I have printed above, thereby echoing the endorsement which they received at the conference of Wisconsin farmers, laborers and consumers. Now, if ever, is the time when the organized forces of economic and political reform should stand fast together in Wisconsin, no matter whether they dwell on our magnificent farms or in our splendid cities and towns. United they can achieve a victory that will do much for the welfare of the state; divided they can accomplish nothing.
—Wisconsin Farmer.

THE "DOUGHBOY'S" NIGHTMARE—AFTER HIS FIRST DAY IN ACTION AT THE FRONT

EARNS MILLIONS A MONTH; PAYS LABOR A PITTANCE

Big Corn Products Concern Put on Pan for Failure to Recognize Claims of Labor for Slightly More Than Living Wage.

(From The Equity News)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—"The net earnings of the Corn Products Refining company after taking out its excess profits tax, amount to $1,000,000 per month for the past six months, according to the treasurer's own statement." We think the company can well afford to share these profits with the workers who produced them," said Miss Ida Glatt, organizer from the National Women's Trade league, who, as one of the elected representatives of the workers, made the concluding statement in their case against the Corn Products company at the hearing before the National War Labor board yesterday:

"I think you're dead right," was the somewhat surprising reply of the company's young vice-president, G. M. Moffett of New York.

"And therefore we ask the board to award us not merely a living wage but a fair wage, in view of the cost of living and the company's earnings," continued President E. G. Galloway of the Granite City (Ill) Labor union, chairman of the workers' committee.

But the young vice president of the company, notwithstanding his admission as to the justice of sharing his profits with the workers, showed up true to employer form in his final statement: "We ask the board to fix a wage scale corresponding to the wage scale in plants similar to those of the Corn Products company," he said in his conclusion of the company's case, "and not compel this company to pay more than other manufacturers are paying."

Four of the fie plant operated by the Corn Products company—namely those at Granite City, Argo and Pekin, Ill., and Edgewater, N. J.—were represented at the hearing which was granted at the workers' request in order to settle disputes growing out of oppressive labor conditions of long standing. "Not anywhere in the United States," declared President John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation of Labor, "does there exist a condition of more completely controlled labor than at the Argo plant of the Corn Products Refining company."

The committee representing the workers numbered 27, headed by President Fitzpatrick. Although there were two delegations from Argo, one from the organized workers and one from the unorganized, and although Pekin and Edgewater sent nonunion representatives, all the delegations after conference among themselves in Washington, subscribed unanimously to the demands to be submitted to the company.

Vice President Moffett and the four plant superintendents, representing the company, agreed to a number of the demands of the workers. The principle questions left to be settled by the national war labor board are the reinstatement of employes dismissed for union activity, the method of future arbitration of disputes, the specific arbitration of disputes, the specific application of the principle of equal pay for equal work, and the wage scale throughout. The company employs at its five plants about 4,000 people of whom 2,500 are employed at Argo, Ill.

Wounded American soldiers arriving at hospital.

German airmen recently achieved another "great victory" when they dropped bombs on the American Red Cross hospital at Jouy, France, killing two persons and injuring fourteen others. The wounded American soldiers shown in the photo would have been in danger, too, had they arrived a day earlier. The picture shows them entering the hospital. The hospital was plainly marked with the insignia and the airmen flew low enough to see the emblem easily, witnesses say.

The Real Sinews of War----The Loyal Support of All The Forces of Organized Labor

LABOR DAY, 1918

LABOR DAY this year of 1918 belongs to the whole world. It will cease to be associated solely with organizations representing 3,000,000 wage earners, for all who are enlisted in the Nation's immense army of industry will claim it as their own. It will have a new significance to all workers in the United States and they are now counted as about 35,000,000.

For the first time, Labor Day is being celebrated in Europe. Thousands of men in uniform, who have marched in holiday processions, will be fighting in desperate battles and for them the day will have an added glory, since it will remind them that, in offering their lives for liberty, they are realizing the ideals it represents—ideals that a generation ago inspired a few progressive men to marshal a parade that was to start an endless procession of progress.

The first Labor Day is marked on the calendar of the past as September 5, 1882. Great days are stepping stones in history. Sometimes they are not recognized by the men and women who pass over them and sometimes they come heralded, bringing with them a sense of their true significance. This September 5, 1882, was one of the days not recognized as great. The newspapers chronicled quite casually two events on that date. Thousands of workingmen had paraded in the streets of New York and Thomas A. Edison had caused his newly perfected incandescent lights to be turned on. The second event was arranged in honor of the first and was destined to furnish a fitting celebration of the beginning of a new era in industry. Thirty-six years since then labor has gone forward, gathering to its growing forces tens of thousands, until today finds the multitude, which would have been indifferent or uninterested in 1882, enlisted under the banners beneath which the 20,000 marched so long ago.

There had been other labor processions before the one that proved to be a stepping stone in history. In 1827 and for the three following years labor societies had paraded on the Fourth of July, but 1882 was destined to be an epochal year. The Knights of Labor were holding their general assembly in New York City. Terence V. Powderly was the General Master Workman. The Central Labor Union, an independent organization containing many bodies affiliated with the Knights, had arranged to have its annual parade when the Knights were in session and had invited the officers to review it.

From the grand stand in Union Square Mr. Powderly and the other labor leaders watched the moving line for more than three hours. On the platform was a young coal miner. Robert Price, of Lonaconing, Md. Leaning forward to touch Richard Griffith, the General Worthy Foreman of the Knights, on the arm, he said "This is Labor Day in earnest, Uncle Dick." Thus he marked the stepping stone and in a sentence gained fame as a man whose vision revealed something of what the day might mean in the future.

Mr. Powderly has counted the gains that each of the 35 Labor Days have measured since then. He is still working for the larger liberty of humanity and can be found every day in his office in the Department of Labor Building in Washington, D. C. He seldom has time to look back, for the vista of the future is so engrossing, but Labor Day,—ah, that recalls many memories. He shakes his head when asked about the past. To him the present is enthralling with all its agonies that are the birth pains of a new era.

"This Labor Day will be the greatest of all Labor Days in history," he said, "because in the trenches of Europe are many thousands of trade-unionists and sons of trade-unionists fighting for the principles they have upheld from year to year. The motto of the Knights of Labor is, 'That is the most perfect Government in which an injury to one is the concern of all,' and in this country one can not find a trade-unionists who does not believe this. When Belgium was crushed it became the concern of every nation on earth that loved liberty, and one by one all the allies have arrayed themselves on the side of Belgium. Labor Day will be celebrated in the trenches by men who believe in that principle.

"Heretofore Labor Day has been celebrated on this continent only. This year it will be celebrated not alone by men wearing our uniform, but by men wearing the uniforms of different nations and fighting together for one cause, all believing that an injury to one is the concern of all. When President Wilson gave that great message to the world that it should be made safe for democracy, he emphasized this motto.

"There will be more men and women gathered around speakers' stands on the first Monday in September than were ever gathered together for any purpose since the world began and all believing the same thing that we enjoy and prize in life must be ultimately enjoyed by the people of all lands, even Germany, for the soldiers of human freedom will not rest content until the people of that land are educated to know that all others are entitled to rights as well as they.

"The word 'brotherhood' is looming very large on the world's horizon, and when we read the lists of those who give their lives that liberty may not perish from the earth we find English, French, Italian, Slavic, Polish, Russian, Scotch, Irish, Welch, and even German names among those who have gone from this land as soldiers of the Army of the United States. When the boys come back after they have wiped out Kaiserism, they will have a new conception of foreign lands and foreign peoples. They will have learned in the fullest sense that all men are equal and that an injury to one is the concern of all."

Across the seas the generals in the army in industry will salute the generals in the army of the allies on Labor Day, 1918. It will be the occasion for the renewal of the sacred pledges that all have taken in the name of liberty and democracy. The one army must depend on the other, and both will be sustained by an abiding faith in the impossibility of failure.

Labor Day, 1918, will be a stepping stone in history that will be recognized—a stepping stone at which the Nation will pause to pray for a peace that means the triumph of justice and righteousness, then to pass on aroused to supreme effort in shop and factory, in trench and on battle field. For "that is the most perfect government in which an injury to one is the concern of all."

HOW ONE AMERICAN GIRL DIED

The national war work council of the Y. M. C. A. authorizes the following:

Draped by the American flag, over which lay the flowers of France, the first American victim of a German air raid over Paris, Miss Winona Martin, of Rockville Center, Long Island, reverently was carried to her last rest, according to a letter received from Paris. Miss Martin was lying ill in a hospital when a boche aviator dropped a bomb through the roof, killing the American girl and four other women. Miss Martin had volunteered as a canteen worker with the Y. M. C. A. and was the first secretary of that organization to be killed.

The story of her supreme sacrifice is told by Carl Holliday in a letter to the war work council of the Y. M. C. A. as follows:

"An hour ago I helped to bear into the American Church in Paris the coffin containing the body of the first Y. M. C. A. secretary killed by a shot of war, and the first American victim of a Paris air raid. Strangely enough, that first victim—that first Y. M. C. A. secretary to be slaughtered—was a woman, Winona Martin, of Rockville Center, Long Island. And yet, is it strange? Could the German have desired a better revenge upon America than the death of this quiet young woman who had come to offer cheer and what aid a woman's hand and voice could give to our soldiers?"

"Toward midnight the Germans came over the city, and for one vivid hour attempted to fill heaven and earth with terror. One of their marks was the Red Cross hospital where Winona Martin, stricken with illness, was lying. A roar of bursting shell, a red, angry flash, a crumbling of walls, a strange silence, and Winona Martin and four other women had given their lives as further sacrifices to German frightfulness.

"There is significance in this girl's death. Does it not illustrate the advancing tide of woman's influence? For here was one, a member of a men's organization, willing to undergo a man's hardship and privations, prepared to march and labor with men, and at length dying a soldier's death. And especially does it seem to show the growing seriousness of the American woman toward this vast conflict—that this quiet student, a librarian by profession, should leave her books to cross the ocean and help the people of another nation throw off the burden of brute tyranny. Is it not another and a striking evidence of the growth of universal brotherhood in these latter days?

"It was a strangely solemn meeting in that church so far away from America—the group of Y. M. C. A. secretaries in their army garb; in the high pulpit the clergyman, also in military uniform; the coffin covered with the flag of America and heaped with the flowers of France. There was no sermon—her sacrifice spoke more eloquently than any words.

"A reading from that Bible which for 300 years has been the foundation of American civilization, a couple of hymns sounding very odd with so few voices of women, and then the placing of the casket in the church vault, there to remain until this world disaster is over.

"I have read her record card at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in Paris. On it, in her own handwriting, are the words, 'For the duration of the war and longer if required.' Longer than the duration of the war will linger the memory of this girl—the first American woman in Paris to lay down her life for this struggle against wrong, and the first martyr among those wearers of the red triangle who may be found toiling in every camp and trench of France."

MAJESTIC

A supreme action story of variety, color and dash, of vigor, romance and the thrill of adventure, of the flash and fire of Spanish love in a vivid Philippine setting. That is what has been provided for Theda Bara in her super-production "Under The York" to be shown at the Majestic today and Monday. As the heroine of a stirring episode during the period when the United States quelled the turbulent islands, Miss Bara presents a character scarcely equalled before on the screen.

CAMPAIGNS ARE WAGED UNTIL LAST MINUTE

Titetmore, Philipp and Wilcox Are All Speaking Today

All three candidates for governor are carrying on their campaignes up to the late minute.

J. N. Tittemore spoke in Black Wolf, Winnebago county, Sunday afternoon and will address a large Labor day celebration at Marinette this afternoon.

Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire, author fo the anti-La Follette resolution in the last legislature, is the Labor day orator at Superior today.

Gov. E. L. Philipp spoke at Hales Corners this morning and then went to Columbus, where he will speak this afternoon.

It is admitted in political circles that campaigning is not as active as in previous years because men everywhere are busy in patriotic work. The campaign has been largely to set the issues before the voters with little attempt at canvassing or personal solicitation.

That the situation is a difficult one to "dope out" is freely confessed by political wiseacres.

Mr. Tittemore says if he is elected his administration will be free of influence from corporation interests and advocates reform along several lines.

Two Years Ago

Two years ago the republicans had three candidates in the primary, but the campaign is parallel in no other respect. The only candidate participating in both primaries is Gov. Philipp, the others two years ago being W. H. Hatton and F. E. McGovern. The issues are entirely different. The vote then was: Philipp, 83,072; Hatton, 46,748; McGovern, 35,292. Gov. Philipp was then supported by men who are opposing him now.

A diversion has been created by the anti-war campaign of the socialists in the German counties, resulting in a vote of 38,000 for Mr. Berger in the primary, and 110,000 in the election last spring. As a result, socialist managers claim 50,000 for Mr. Seidel in the primary last year.

Democrats look for a light vote in the primary, due to the absence of a contest on the state ticket. Two years ago Mr. Williams polled 39,601 voes in the primary. It is doubtful if the vote this year will equal that number.

MENASHA—Twenty-eight years ago on Thursday occurred the Whiting mill disaster in which a score of workmen were killed when a steam boiler exploded. In commemoration of the tragedy memorial services were held at St. Mary's church in this city, eight of the men killed being members of the local congregation.

In order to keep up with the garbage work the employes were required to work today. Superintendent George Sullivan has announced that although four trucks and 12 men are employed by the garbage system it has been impossible to take care of the business as thoroughly as might be possible under normal conditions, as shortage of labor and extra refuse caused by canning and extensive use of vegetables has made it difficult to keep up with the work.

PERONNE HAS FALLEN

PARIS — The allies are keeping up the battle in the face of increasing resistance by the enemy and more than that they have extended the fighting until it now embraces a front of some 120 miles from Ypres to Soissons. This is more than many well informed observers had hoped for.

Peronne has fallen and with it the enemy's last chance of holding on to a strong defensive position along the Somme.

While the principal features now are being performed on the British part of the battle line, General Mangin continues to forge ahead, adding every day to the enemy's losses and to his danger. General Mangin's success is due not only to the valor of his Franco-American troops but to the skill in maneuvering that he has shown.

RAIL EMPLOYES TO WITHHOLD WAGE DEMAND

Street Car Men Will Now Await Decision of Rate Board

Madison street railway employes have decided to accept the five-cent wage increase given them by the Madison Railways company Saturday and to make no further demand for the additional five cents for which they asked until such time as the state railroad commission has acted upon the company application for permission to increase the fare to six cents.

This decision was reached at a meeting held at Labor hall Saturday night by member of the Street Railway Employes' union, Local No. 456, of which Adin Alverson is president.

The five-cent increase given them Saturday is the second for that amount granted since they entered a demand for a 15-cent increase. Their wages are now 35 and 40 cents an hour, whereas their demand was for 40 and 45 cents an hour. With the increase given them Saturday was included a guarantee from the company of at least 10 hours a day. As some of the runs are only for eight hours and 40 minutes, it was decided to accept the five-cent increase and the guarantee, and to await further developments.

If the railroad commission gives the company permission to increase its fare to six cent, then the employes will again present their demand for a wage scale of 40 and 45 cents an hour.

CUBS AND BOSTON TO START SERIES

Officials Invited to Attend Games; Bush and Vaughn May Pitch Opener

The National Baseball commission in a letter to Gen. Crowder on Sunday, extended to Secretary Baker and Gen. Crowder appreciation and thanks for official approval of the series and an unstinted invitation to them to attend the games.

Dopesters in Chicago have it that Bullet Joe Bush will be the gent to oppose the Cubs in the opening game of the set. Manager Mitchell of the Bears announced on Sunday that Jim Vaughn would in all probability be given the preference from a Chicago club standpoint.

Working Vaughn in the opener will give Mitchell a chance to use either Tyler or Hendrix in the second game. Tyler is a rattling good pitcher but if Mitchell intends to use a right hander, Hendrix probably will draw the assignment, although there is a possibility that Phil Douglass will be used. Carl Mays will likely hurl the second tussle for the Red Sox.

EXPEL PIERCE FOR ARTICLE ON IOWA COUNCIL

Charges That Big Business Attempting to Exploit Patriotism

DES MOINES, Ia.—The fight which has been brewing here for some time between Big Business, which controls the Iowa State Council of Defonse and the organized farmers reached an acute stage yesterday when James M. Pierce, publisher of The Iowa Homestend and The Wisconsin Farmer was expelled from the Iowa council of defense for his utterances.

"Iowa's Reign of Terror"

Under an article headed "Iowa's Reign of Terror" Pierce denounced the manner by which Big Business in Iowa, typified by the Greater Iowa association and the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce are seeking further their own interests by enedeavoring to smash farmers' organizations. The article to which the Iowa Council objected in part, follows:

"But in Iowa there is a veritable reign of terror, which has been encouraged among ignorant and irresponsible people, by men and organizations who should and do know better, but who are playing upon passion and prejudice for ulterior purposes. More harm is resulting from this assumption of authority by private individuals, without the shadow of moral or legal right, than by all the pro-German propaganda or roal dialoyalty in the state. And the worst of it is that it defeats the very purpose which is used to excuse it—the purpose of uniting all our citizens whole-heartedly and sincerely behind the government's war aims. Already this rule of passion, freed from legal restraint, has resulted in the excesses of mob violence, of injustice and wrongs towards loyal and patriotic citizens, whose whole lives will be embittered by the brutal intolerance of a few. Our boasted freedom and liberty and love of fair play are being made the victims of methods no better than those of the despoilers of Belgium, from which they differ not in quality but only in degree.

A Fortune Spent Fighting the Farmer

"Right today in Iowa, men in positions of leadership and responsibility are fomenting and encouraging this spirit of mob rule and terrorism, which is wholly outside the pale of law, and which will result in such a spirit of lawlessness that we will pay dearly for it in the years to come. The Greater Iowa Association and its allied organizations are among those which are helping to create this atmosphere of dangerous suspicion and distrust, especially towards farmers' organizations in Iowa, which is bound to result in blood shed and lynch-law if it is not quickly checked. The Greater Iowa Association boasts in its monthly publication that it has already spent $20,000 in helping to put down the Bolsheviki of Iowa (its usual expression for the loyal and conservative farmers of this state), and that it will spend $180,000 more (a total of $200,000) for this purpose if necessary. Its sentiments are approved and applauded by its sycophant organizations, such as the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, in its official monthly bulletin, which it proclaims is 'the mouthpiece for Des Moines.'

Patriotism Is Abused

"Circular letters are being sent out encouraging individuals to take matters into their own hands and repress the farmers organizing, on the grounds of patriotism. Following such suggestions loyal and public-pirited farmers have been dragged from their beds at night and haled before men who have not the slightest authority to sit in judgment on them; farmers have been forced by threats and duress to sign pledges agreeing to cease organizing for political and economic benefits, copies of which were not furnished them; others have been driven out of communities for exercising their constitutional rights of free speech and assemblage; while others have been subjected to every form of humiliation and abuse, merely for standing by their rights as liberty-loving American citizens and vindicating the very ideals for which their sons are fighting in Europe and for which they and their families are working as never before. And all these crimes, committed in the name of patriotism, are because the Greater Iowa Association and the interests it represents fear the political and business power of the farmers of Iowa when once they are thoroughly organized."

COWLES ASKS FOR $500,000 TAX INCREASE

Deputy Tax Assessor Wants Big Boost on Edgerton Tobacco

H. V. Cowles, deputy income tax assessor for this district, is leading the fight to increase the tobacco assessment at Edgerton by nearly $500,000. He has been temporarily blocked by the decision of the board of review at Edgerton that the rolls have been closed and cannot be legaly opened. The matter will probably go to the courts for determination. Eighteen tobacco firms in Edgerton would be affected by the increase.

Tobacco is one of the products that has increased in value at astonishing rates during the past year. Early in the spring the assessors of the state started to assess tobacco at the following rate: Case filler, $35; binder, per case, $55. In May the state tax commission held a conference and directed that the rates be increased and that fillers be assessed at $55 and binders at $75. In all of the tobacco sections of the state, with the exception of the city of Edgerton, this was followed.

Cowles For Increase

The tax commission decided that something must be done in the case of Edgerton. Cowles appeared before the board of review at Edgerton, Aug 1 and asked permission to file information to substantiate the necessity for the increase. The board of review is composed of Joseph J. Leary, George W. Doty and H. B. Knapp, city clerk. The hearing was set for Aug. 8 and information was filed by Cowles against 18 tobacco men of Edgerton. When Cowles appeared before the board of review he was told by City Attorney George W. Blanchard that the assessment could not be opened to make the change.

Nevertheless, witnesses were sworn and much testimony was offered by Cowles to show the necessity of the increase. Just as Mr. Cowles was about to put City Clerk Knapp on the stand to testify, the hearing was halted and a continuation was asked and granted until Aug. 16. Upon reconvening, the state rested its case and City Attorney Blanchard gave testimony as to the method of the assessment. After all the testimony was in, the board of review held that it would be illegal to open the assessment rolls to consider a change in the assessment.

Wants Figures Restored

It was then that Deputy Cowles served notice on the board of review that he would demand the $55 and $75 assessment rate.

"I found that the records as originally made up had figured the fillers at $55 a case and the binders at $75 a case," said H. V. Cowles today. "These figures had been crossed out and the lower estimates inserted. Under the law such changes on the assessment roll are not permissable."

Cowles claims that the assessment with the changes is illegal and will take action to have the original figures restored. Just what will be the nature of this action has not been disclosed by Cowles.

The total value of all property in Edgerton, real estate and personal, is $3,487,260. Of this amount, $1,043,030 is tobacco at the case rate of $35 a case for filler and $55 a case for binder. Deputy Cowles contends for an assessment of all property in Edgerton at $3,962,515. Of this latter sum, $1,518,285 is represented as tobacco computed at the rate of $55 and $75 a case.

"It means an increase in the tobacco assessment of nearly $500,000 at Edgerton," said Mr. Cowles today. "The state will exhaust every means in getting this increase as the proper amount on the tax roll of that city."

"Would this not mean a lower tax rate in the city if the assessment on tobacco is increased?" he was asked.

"It certainly would," he replied.

Cowles stated that the largest tobacco places were in the counties of Dane and Rock and that with the exception of Edgerton, all had placed the tobacco on the tax rolls at the $55 and $75 rate as ordered by the state tax commission.
